THE FATHERS OF CONFEDERATION

The Fathers of Confederation bear somewhat the same relation to Canadian history as the Signers of the Declaration of Independence do to the history of the United States. Like the latter, they are all venerated collectively, but individually certain names stand out above the rest—the master minds that made the great movement a reality. Macdonald, Cartier, Tupper, Galt, Brown and McGee were the real leaders in the movement that resulted in the merging of the weak and scattered colonies of British North America into the Dominion of Canada. At the same time, while honoring the memory of these outstanding Canadians it would be unjust to forget the very real services of the other seventeen men who with them made up the Fathers of Confederation, or who in other words represented the legislatures and people of their respective colonies at the Quebec Conference in 1864.

At that conference, Canada (which then embraced what we know today as Ontario and Quebec) was represented by Sir Etienne P. Tache, John A. Macdonald, Georges E. Cartier, William McDougall, George Brown, Alexander T. Galt, Alexander Campbell, Oliver Mowat, Hector L. Langevin, James Cockburn, Thomas D'Arcy McGee and J. C. Chapais; Nova Scotia by Charles Tupper, W. A. Henry, R. B. Dickey, Jonathan McCully, A. C. Archibald; New Brunswick, by S. L. Tilley, John M. Johnson, Peter Mitchell, Charles Fisher, Edward Chandler, W. H. Steeves, John H. Gray; Prince Edward Island, by John H. Gray, Edward Palmer, W. H. Pope, Georges Coles, T. H. Haviland, Edward Whelan, A. A. McDonald, and Newfoundland by F. B. T. Carter and John Ambrose Shea. Nearly all of these men had taken part in the Charlottetown Conference that paved the way for the momentous meeting at Quebec; most of them were instrumental in steering the Quebec Resolutions through their respective legislatures; and, with the exception of the Newfoundland delegates, practically the same group met again at Westminster in 1866 to prepare the final draft of the British North America Act—the Constitution of Canada.

Newfoundland, after some hesitation, finally decided not to join the new Confederation. In 1895, delegates were sent to Ottawa by the Ancient Colony to discuss terms of union, but unfortunately the negotiations fell through, and have never since been resumed. Prince Edward Island took several years to deliberate, but finally came into the Dominion in 1873. In the meantime the Red River Colony had joined the union as the province of Manitoba; and the following year British Columbia also became a member. Saskatchewan and Alberta became provinces in 1905.

As each of the thirty-three Fathers of Confederation had been political leaders before the creation of the Dominion, so after Confederation, each of them took an active part in the public life of the country, some as members of the federal cabinet, the senate, or in the house of commons; others as members of the various provincial governments or legislatures; others again as lieutenant-governors of provinces, or members of the judiciary.

Fred Antrobus Resigns From Council

Throws Hat in Mayoralty Ring; Court of Revision on July 16; Two More Relief Cases

Highlight of Tuesday's regular council meeting was the resignation of councillor Fred Antrobus. His resignation was unhesitatingly accepted when he explained he desired to contest the mayoralty election.

Mr. Andrew Vrskovy whose residence in West Coleman was built on a lot sold him last year by the council, was present to explain to council extent of damage done to house through subsidence. Works and Property committee was authorized to investigate with power to act.

A court of revision will be held on Wednesday, July 3, at Blairmore presided over by provincial authorities to hear appeals against certain property assessments in the Pass towns. Council will have at least one representative at this court.

Following Councillor Antrobus' resignation, council declared that nomination day be held on Wednesday, June 26, for the purpose of electing one mayor and two councillors.

Mrs. Vollandorf appeared before council and stated that her husband still fails to provide adequate support. She has been told twice this month to vacate her present premises. Council advised that she go to the same hotel as her husband is now staying and that Constable Antle would be authorized to see her husband and have him support her and child in the hotel.

E. W. Dibble asked that council provide his son with work on town projects, recompense for the work to pay off his taxes. Council refused the request.

R. F. Barnes, honorary secretary of Coleman Crystal arena, asked that council write off arena's taxes as has been the practice in past years. Request granted.

Gordon Nurcombe, chairman of hockey club carnival, asked that the carnival be given police supervision. 50% of the proceeds will be turned over to Coleman Elks War Effort Fund.

A letter received from Coleman Citizens' Ambulance Fund Committee asking council to contribute towards the fund. Council took the attitude that since all citizens were donating liberally it was unfair to ask that taxpayers' money be donated to the fund. Request was refused.

Council rebated taxes of S. Bettinger in return for his services as supervisor of the town's nuisance ground.

Hayson's Drug store was granted permission to erect a neon sign above its premises.

Norman Plants asked that he be granted town relief. He mentioned he had a wife and baby to keep. Constable Antle was asked to investigate.

The relief application of Mrs. John Denholm was again read. Constable was asked to investigate.

Neither council nor provincial authorities will be responsible for back rent owed by Ernest Kroesing, relief recipient, to W.

Refugee Children Will Come to Coleman

Wire Received By Mrs. Fred Antrobus From England; Sixteen Coleman Families Agree to Receive Refugees

A wire was received Tuesday morning by Mrs. F. Antrobus from Crow's Nest, near Aldershot, England, from a friend asking her to take three English refugee children into her home for the duration of the war.

She has been advised by president Wilfred Dutil, Coleman branch of Canadian Red Cross, to send a wire asking that the children be sent here. Mr. Dutil has received offers from sixteen Coleman families to take into their homes refugee children from England. Offers to take one or two children has been the rule, depending on the accommodation available.

The Journal endeavored to secure the names of these loyal citizens who had offered the shelter of their homes to these war refugees, but President Dutil asks that The Journal wait till a later date.

It is known that families in the Pass are daily expecting nephews and nieces from war-torn Europe to arrive. The three refugee children whom Mrs. Antrobus has been asked to receive are entirely unknown to her.

McGrath. Council and the province will, however, take care of all future rent, which is $5.00 monthly.

Court of revision for all town and school assessments will be held on Tuesday, July 16, in the council chamber. It is expected both town and school bodies will be in attendance in addition to the assessor.

Present were Acting Deputy Mayor Atkinson, Councillors Antrobus, Ford and Kerr.

Meeting adjourned at 10:30 p.m.

Fred Antrobus Elected Mayor By Acclamation; Geo. Jenkins And Frank Aboussafy Elected To Council; Third Candidate's Paper For Councillor Rejected By Returning Officer

The positions of mayor and two councillors were filled by acclamation on Wednesday morning when Returning Officer J. A. Park received sufficient names to fill the positions. The nomination paper of Joseph Kapalka, merchant, was rejected by the returning officer when it became known that Mr. Kapalka had failed to become a naturalized British subject. He later withdrew his nomination, and sent a letter to that effect to the town secretary.

OFFICE	CANDIDATE	NOMINATED BY
Mayor	Fred Antrobus	J. Atkinson and G. Ford
Councillor	Frank Aboussafy	H. C. McBurney, G. Pattinson
Councillor	George Jenkins	Geo. Ford and M. Joyce

The new mayor succeeds John S. D'Appolonia, and enters upon his new duties with eight years experience as a councillor. The two new councillors enter municipal politics for the first time. Mr. Aboussafy has taken a keen interest in community affairs since he came here from Wetsakwin several years ago and last year was president of Coleman Canadians hockey club. Mr. Jenkins has grown from boyhood into manhood in Coleman and received his education in Coleman schools. He is well known for his athletic prowess and was a prime favorite with hockey fans a few years ago.

VIOLET DECIDES TO STAY

Several years ago Violet Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson of Sixth street, after passing through high school here, went to London, and secured a position in the offices of one of the famous Lever Bros' establishments at Purfleet, near the Thames estuary. It was safe and pleasant in those days, but with German air raids bombing along the River Thames, it gives cause of many alarms and anxiety to Violet's parents and her sister Ethel, who is a teacher on Coleman staff.

Last week they cabled to Violet asking her to come home. But there was no shirking on her part, for she called back that she was staying on the job, and wasn't going to evacuate.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

At the general meeting of Crow's Nest Pass Trustees Association S. G. Bannan of Blairmore was re-elected president, W. H. Chappell secretary-treasurer and William Fraser, chairman of Coleman trustees, vice-president.

Ambulance Fund Committee Sends $3500 to Calgary

Business Area Gives Approximately $1000. Miners, Companies, Lodges To Be Heard From

Coleman Ambulance Fund committee forwarded $3500 to Red Cross headquarters at Calgary on Thursday morning of last week for the immediate purchase of two ambulances. Donations for a third ambulance are now being collected.

The business men divided themselves into small groups to solicit donations from the business section of Coleman. On Tuesday morning, W. L. Rippon, treasurer, reported that $900 had been collected with still a number of persons to be heard from. He expected that $1000 would be realized from the business area.

The miners, who have promised to donate 2% of their month's wages, are expected to swell the fund by $1000 or more. The mining companies and the numerous lodges in town are also expected to give a big boost towards the purchase of the ambulances.

MISS BETH MOORES APPOINTED TO HOSPITAL STAFF

Appointment was made this week by the hospital board of Miss Elizabeth Moore to the hospital staff to succeed Miss Margaret Stewart, whose marriage will take place in the near future. Miss Moore commenced her duties on Sunday evening.

She is a local girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moore, and attended public and high schools in Coleman. She graduated from Calgary General hospital two years ago and last year relieved at the local hospital during the summer vacations of staff members.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Michael, Mrs. H. N. Koury and Mr. Mike Michael, relatives of Mr. Charles Nicholas, left for their homes in Seattle this week, after attending the funeral of Mrs. Nicholas on Sunday afternoon.

Intermediate Teachers Ask Salary Increase

Four Teachers Affected; Two Others Below Coleman Salary Wage Level.

A special meeting of Coleman school board and the teachers wage scale committee of the Coleman branch of the A. T. A. was held on Tuesday evening. Present for the teachers, Messrs D. Hoyle, John McDonald, and the Misses Ethel Wilson and Edith Wasyom; for the Board, Chairman Fraser, Trustees Fleming, Sharp and Lloyd.

The committee asked that four intermediate teachers teaching physical training, dramatics, music and certain high school subjects, in addition to their regular subjects, have their respective salaries boosted to $1800. Two other public school teachers in Central school are at present receiving $1080 which is below the Coleman wage average of $1170. It was requested that these two teachers receive the latter salary.

The board decided that before further discussion could take place on wage matters a meeting of the Crow's Nest Pass Teachers Association would be called and a uniform wage scale governing all Pass schools be drawn up. The matter was left until such time as this is done.

Fire Ranger Warns Campers to be Careful

Fires Rage in British Columbia; No Fires in This District

Pass residents are breathing the heavy tang of burning timber and a blue haze envelopes the hills as forest fires rage in British Columbia. Fire Ranger Harry Boulton reports a fairly large fire is burning south west of Elkton, and that a small fire which destroyed two acres of timber near Corbin was quickly put out by a gang of men under his supervision.

In his annual statement to all campers he lays heavy stress on the point that no one take things for granted. An extra minute to carefully down the dying camp fire may result in saving the Dominion thousands of dollars and millions of feet of valuable timber. Hot dry weather is now upon us and everyone should pay strict attention to camp fires. Due to the hundreds of fishermen frequenting the North and South Forks he asks that they be especially careful. Many valuable stands of timber are located in these two sections.

The Foe Within

Out of this wrack of chaos and confusion which people are calling World War No. 2 will eventually emerge new ways of life, new attitudes between nations and individuals, great changes in government, new methods of approaching social and economic problems and in fine, the reconstruction of the world on an entirely different basis to that we have hitherto known and experienced.

And what is this new world which we dimly divine is coming after this maelstrom of conflict has ceased going to be? Is it going to be something better than we have dreamed, or is it going to be something infinitely worse than we could fear?

Are hate and greed, fear and malice and all uncharitableness between nations and among individuals going to be buried so deep that they will never be resurrected? Are these forces of evil going to be replaced by peace, amity, security, humanity and the love which so often we have glibly declared should comprise the cornerstone of relationships between man and man and between nation and nation, or is the world to be given over to an unbridled reign of fear, lust, cruelty, despotism and slavery?

In other words, are the forces of horror and evil against which we, along with those who think with us, going to be allowed to prevail, or are we going to gird our loins with determination to conquer, no matter how long and bitter the conflict, no matter how much we may have to suffer and endure in the meantime, and without regard to the cost to each of us as individuals and to the nation as a whole?

The answer to these questions is simple. It lies within the heart and mind of each of us as individuals and as members of the Canadian nation. Along with our Allies we can and will prevail, provided our attitude as individuals towards this gigantic struggle is the right one; provided that all of us are determined to wage this warfare to a finish and provided that each and every one of us dedicates himself and herself to the task in hand with the last ounce of physical ability and will power. And make no mistake, it may well be that these last ounces of reserves may have to be called upon to turn the scales in our direction.

Outcome Is Certain

And what is the attitude which we must bring to bear on our activities and contributions towards this tremendous struggle? Is it not true, that if we are to win this war and be in a position subsequently to say in what kind of a world we are going to live and have our being, that our strength of arms must be fortified by high moral purposes; that we ourselves as individuals must be imbued with those principles which we hope we are able to impose upon a willing world once the peace is signed; that we must practice these principles in our dealings one with another, that we must utilize them as guiding lights in the conduct of the war and that when victory has crowned our forces, as it will, we must make practical application of them when dictating the terms of peace?

As Canadians and as members of the great British Empire, we have everything, material and spiritual, to ensure an ultimate victory, if we make full use of these resources. We have courage, initiative, a bountiful supply of material resources and a high moral purpose, all of which must be made to play their part in full, not only by the nation as an entity but by every individual. If this is done there can be no question of the ultimate outcome.

A Foe To Fight

Since the outbreak of hostilities there have been dark days and dark months. There may be more of them before arms can be stacked and swords turned back to plowshares. Occasionally during the dark days through which we have already passed, there have been signs of a spirit of defeatism abroad, here and there. This is one of the foes which has to be fought if we are to expect our arms to be crowned with the success which we have every right to expect.

Defeatism is the very antithesis of the courage and optimism which enabled our fathers and our grandfathers to lay the foundations of a young but mighty nation, which enabled them to carve a great and promising civilization of the highest type out of the wilderness. If we are to be worthy of the heritage they gave us we must abandon the spirit of defeatism and spur it every time it rears its ugly head, lest the enemy within our gates prevent us from putting to rout the foe outside.

Sometimes Favorable

"It must be lonesome," remarked a listener.

"It has its compensations," continued the lecturer. "For instance, when one purchases a lawnmower it practically becomes one's own property."

Strategy Is Good Weapon

History Shows Victory Is Not Always Decided By Numbers

In the battle of Bannockburn, fought June 24, 1314, 30,000 Scots under Robert Bruce inflicted a crushing defeat on 100,000 English under Edward III. The victory was largely due to Bruce's undermining the front of his position with pits covered with turf and rushes into which the English cavalry were precipitated in helpless confusion.

Furthermore, the story of Bannockburn is but one of many proofs to be found in history that victory is not always decided by numbers. Strategy, tactics and originality can be as effectively applied to-day as at any time.

Even as in the days of Robert Bruce the commanders who can think best and proceed boldly to carry out their plans will prove successful and may still use 30,000 to defeat 100,000.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

His Qualifications

Wishing to enrol as a cadet, an African sent the following letter to the British commandant at Lagos, Nigeria: "I am a shorthandist. I know moving, bomb, balling and shell cricketing stand me no menace for I know my mortality. Let me come now to avoid rawness, brownness and untold inconveniences that may ensue from ignorance in the use and avoidance of arms."

A curve-ball baseball pitcher is less effective in Denver than in San Diego, because there is less air resistance in Denver, due to the high altitude. 2365

Hate Everything Decent

Real Reason Nazis Want To Crush The British Empire

The following article by Bride Broder, appeared in the Toronto Globe and Mail:

"He hated me just because I was a gentleman"—you'll find that truth in one of Kenneth Grahame's delightful books. It is a fact that has been proved time and again in private life and we are inclined to believe that the senseless hate of certain other countries for Great Britain is based, chiefly, on this knowledge that there are things to which the British have never stooped. It must not be forgotten that it was the German mercenaries in the British Army which perpetrated the atrocities in Ireland a century or so ago.

England has left undone much she should have done, but one thing she has, and that is a city of refuge for the hunted, safe harborage for those driven by the terror raging in their own country, the place to which the fearful have fled, the little island that has even now, in the midst of its own alarms, sent out a warship to bring to its shores a woman who has reigned in simplicity and with justice, a woman whom all the world has respected, but who was attacked in her own home by "the barbarians from across the Rhine." The quotation is not from a recent writer, but from some one writing 2,000 years ago, from the country whose athletic dictator is to-day consorting with those barbarians.

These tyrants have hated Britain's individual and collective good breeding even more than they have hated her navy; they hated the English Princess, married to their Crown Prince, because she broke some silly rules of etiquette which they, because unused of themselves, had built about their court. The Kaiser feared his grandmother, the great Queen Victoria, he hated Edward, her son, for the very qualities in which he himself was lacking; he and his minions did their best to bring down the beloved George the Fifth, because the quiet dignity and simplicity of the nephew made the uncle's bluster and display of pomp look cheap and vulgar.

"The barbarians from across the Rhine" hate Britain because her actions are based on an innate gentlemanly decency.

Has Nothing In Reserve

Mussolini Is Very Poorly Prepared For A Long Struggle

Benito Mussolini's vile treachery will brand him forever in history. Adolf Hitler is a megalomaniac, but at least it can be told of him that, despite all the evil he has wrought, he has the sincerity of fanaticism. Benito Mussolini is no fanatic. He is a cold-blooded, calculating gangster seeking to make his divisions fight civilization's misery. In Paris to-day lives an old man, Marcel Cachin, who was the French Government emissary to carry gold to Benito Mussolini to buy his aid to bring Italy to the side of the Allies against Imperial Austria and Germany. From that day to this Benito Mussolini has been the purchasable gunman, the international Capone living off blackmail, a "Sawdust Caesar" trading in dishonor. Only two years have gone since this man entered into solemn agreement with Britain in respect to the Mediterranean.

Treachery will bring what it deserves. For all his bombast Benito Mussolini knows he has little with which to fight. A considerable part of his people are against him, his air force is largely obsolete and second class; his navy is definitely inferior to forces in the Mediterranean; his army has never been tested. Furthermore, no belligerent in this war is less well prepared to stand a long struggle. Mussolini has neither coal nor steel nor oil; most of the war materials he must have must be brought over seas on which he can't have mastery. Ottawa Journal.

A Midget Car

An inventor in Italy has made a shrimp sized car which will do 165 miles on a gallon of gasoline. When the gas runs out it will go another seven miles on an emergency battery. And when the battery runs down he can use the pedals to make it go. Getting back to the pedal extremities, as it were.

FEMALE PAIN

Women who suffer painful, irregular periods with nervous, moody spells due to irregularities should find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound simply made, reliable to relieve such distress. Pinkham's Compound is made especially to help weak, tired women to get into their normal, healthy days. Over 1,000,000 women have reported amazing benefits. WELL WORTH TRYING!

No Luxuries

Women Of Britain Are Greatly Restricted In Their Purchases

British women are now required, in addition to other restrictions, to reduce expenditures on cosmetics, silk stockings, furs, permanent waves and also household equipment such as vacuum cleaners etc. Such articles are declared to be luxuries in the Government's new order restricting imports. The war is also limiting color patterns for clothing. The range of dyes for women's clothing is limited to 12, and for men the choice is among a half dozen shades of brown, blues and greys.

This continent is not yet fully aware of the impact that the war is having on civilized standards of life. In the United Kingdom the shops are sand-haggled, holidays have been called off, and those who have been used to frills are cutting them one by one. Everyone is getting down to fundamentals. The principle not only of self-preservation, but of mutual aid is operating.

Selfishness becomes a form of treachery, and a narrow, individualistic outlook is intolerable. Personal adornment is a secondary interest, and hard work to provide safety, comfort and relief from suffering, is the ideal. These are great virtues to achieve, though it is regrettable that they are being won with so much hardship and tragedy. Toronto Star.

Aboard A Destroyer

Ships Toss So Much That Meals Cannot Be Prepared

Meals may be irregular aboard a destroyer on the Atlantic patrol but it is not because sea-hardened sailors lose their appetites from sickness. It is because the ship tosses so much the meals cannot be cooked.

So says Commodore George C. Jones, Senior Officer aboard of the Royal Canadian Navy, according to a statement issued by the Public Information Office. He has just been promoted from captain.

Christmas Day, 1939, for instance, found Canadian destroyers on tossing seas conveying Canadian troops across the Atlantic. Commodore Jones had to make two cups of beef tea for breakfast, dinner and supper for 48 hours.

Nearly the Canadian soldiers travelled in the comfort of large passenger liners. They could eat if they felt like it but Commodore Jones doubts if they did.

Under such conditions a message of Merry Christmas signalled by the French battleship Dunkerque, passing on convoy duty, brought an ironical smile to the faces of hungry and weary Canadian sailors.

Look Forward—Canada!

Under this heading there recently appeared large advertisements of a Wall Board Company calling attention to several interesting facts as follows:

"This year you can have a far better home for less money, than you could ten years ago. Every dollar spent in remodeling—sawing, re-roofing and building creates an hour's work for one of the 200,000 men who depend on the building industry for livelihood.

In January, February and March of this year (latest figures released) the gain in building was all over Canada in 1939. In 1938 it was 15 per cent. In February 1940 over February 1939. With this evidence, it seems that 1940 should be an outstanding year for building trades and those who supply them with materials—especially as there are more marriages taking place, with consequent need of more new homes than for many years."

French Acceptance Of Nazi Peace Terms Is Great Betrayal

The British press, echoing Prime Minister Churchill's "grief and amazement" at the armistice, said the British government's acceptance of Hitler's terms betrayed the French people and Britain.

"France will not desert," the Daily Herald predicted. "Always in her heart she will carry the message of the Marcelline—'March On! March On!'"

"At the very moment when Marshal Petain's chief delegate put his pen to the armistice terms, the second French revolution was born."

The Herald said that "the plenipotentiaries of Marshal Petain have served up France to Hitler on a dining car table."

"They have put the French revolution into reverse."

Vernon Bartlett in the News Chronicle commented: "Even the armistice, which has thus broken France's pledge not to make a separate peace, cannot seriously believe that Hitler's solemn promise not to use the French fleet during the war means any more than his previous promises to the Czechs, Danes, Poles and all the rest of them."

Bartlett continued: "Those ships which come into German hands—and one is not, unfortunately, sure how many will refuse to obey the order to return to French ports to surrender—will be used against Great Britain, and members of the French government know it."

The Daily Mail called it a "shameful surrender" and declared that "in imposing these terms Hitler gives us yet another warning, if such be needed, of his ultimate aim in all this war—conquest of Britain."

New York—"The stark and terrible fact is that the two great democratic peoples of Europe are allies no longer."

The New York Times thus summed up the result of the armistice imposed on France and declared the French people themselves "will have to be the judges, some day, of the pitiless armistice terms imposed upon them at Compiègne and Rome."

"They will have many occasions to wonder whether these fearful punishments are any higher than if their government had continued to fight from colonial or foreign soil," it said. "The only real independence that is left to France will survive in the souls of the French people."

"The tormented French people are now caught between the German hammer and the British anvil. They will hate their German and Italian conquerors and perhaps also their prisoners they have brought catastrophe upon them; one can only hope and pray that they will not transfer some of their hate toward the French comrades in arms across the channel."

Said the Herald Tribune:

"The government which could sign these terms not only puts France in the position of leaving Great Britain in the lurch in her desperate hour but undertakes to require all Frenchmen everywhere to be silent partners of Hitler's passive allies, in effect, in the reduction of what is now the last citadel of civilized Europe. This is not an honorable surrender."

German Prisoners

May Be Brought From England And Interned In Canada

Ottawa.—Canada is prepared to meet the wishes of the United Kingdom government and have enemy aliens and German prisoners now held in Great Britain moved to Canada. Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced in the House of Commons.

The internment operations branch here has been preparing for some time to receive these aliens and prisoners of war, it was learned.

They will be put in new internment camps and will be kept separate from inmates taken into custody in Canada because the administration is somewhat different. Canadian troops will guard the inmates from overseas.

The prime minister said the British government was anxious "that we should take first of all interned aliens, secondly that we should take German prisoners in Britain and thirdly that we should then consider the matter of evacuated children."

"The reason they give in this connection are that the interned aliens in Great Britain are in a position to help parachutists in the event of a bombardment of the British Isles which they are expecting hourly."

"They also feel that the German prisoners they have there require a great deal by way of protection and that the men protecting them should be available for the protection of the British Isles themselves."

"There is great congestion, because of the refugees which have been coming there and they feel it and security in every way to have alien interests and German prisoners brought to this country and placed in different parts of the country under protection measures here."

The prime minister did not say when the movement of aliens and prisoners of war would start but the impression here is that it will start soon. At the present season they can be placed temporarily under canvas.

Ambulances For Britain

Planned To Ship More Than 100 To British Isles

Toronto.—Dr. Fred W. Routley, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society, said it is planned to ship more than 100 ambulances to the British Isles just as soon as transportation can be arranged. Blankets also will be sent. The number of ambulances promised the British Red Cross by individuals, business firms and clubs throughout Canada has reached more than 130, and more than 58,000 blankets have been collected.

First shipment of blankets, intended for refugees and wounded soldiers, has gone overseas, Dr. Routley said, but due to the present inability status of France, shipments probably will be taken to England in future.

Canadians In Iceland

First Contingent Will Soon Be Followed By Other Units

Ottawa.—The Canadian troops sent to Iceland, Newfoundland and the British West Indies, it was learned from a reliable source.

Prime Minister King announced that the first contingent of a Canadian force had reached Iceland and that further units will follow shortly. He also said Canadian troops were in Newfoundland. The transfer of troops to the British West Indies was announced recently.

The 1st Canadian division and its auxiliary forces remain in England where they are assigned to home defence.

Will Need All Farm Produce

Ottawa.—If Canada is to do all that is expected of it, its farms will have to produce all they are capable of producing, Prime Minister King said in the House of Commons. He was explaining that there was no intention of shifting large numbers of men from present duties to new tasks.

Americans Would Enlist

Vancouver.—More than 400 United States citizens, many of them experienced pilots, have applied at the Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting station here during the last few months, officials said. "We are talking their applications," said F.H.L. R. Bawlf.

Formal Installation Of Earl Of Athlone As Governor-General

Veterans Home Guard

Nineteen Infantry Reserve Companies To Be Organized

Ottawa.—As a start, 19 infantry reserve companies for the Veterans Home Guard will be organized, the department of national defence announced. The companies will consist of four platoons, each platoon consisting of three sections.

Following completion of the plan of organization, instructions to proceed with appointments and recruiting have been sent to officers commanding military districts.

The reserve companies will be in addition from the 12 active companies of the veterans home guard, each consisting of 300 men of all ranks. While the active companies form part of the Canadian Active Service Force, the reserve companies will be attached to units of the non-permanent active militia.

Each reserve company will be under the command of a major with a captain as second in command. Each platoon will be under the command of a lieutenant. Attachment to infantry or machine-gun battalions of the militia may be either by a complete infantry reserve company or a sub-unit of a company, at the discretion of the district officer commanding.

As with the active companies, only men who served in the military, naval or air forces in the Great War will be eligible for enlistment in or appointment to the reserve companies.

Selection will be made by officers commanding the militia units to which the companies are to be attached and the co-operation of local veterans' organizations may be used. Men under 50 years of age who are classified in categories "A," "B" and "C" on the medical examination will be accepted.

Unlike the active companies, men in the reserve companies will not receive uniforms. They will be issued distinctive arm bands to wear on duty and will receive pay.

Latvians Killed In Riot

Civilians Protested Against Russian Troops Occupying City Of Riga

Tallinn, Estonia.—Scores of Latvian civilians were killed and wounded in the streets of Riga during angry demonstrations against Russian troops occupying the city. Reports of six disorders reached Tallinn.

Latvian civilians are said to have paraded through the streets. They stoned shop windows and marched to the central police station. Then, it is said, Russian military officers ordered Latvian police to fire on the crowds.

Compulsory Service In Canada Under The Mobilization Measure

Ottawa.—The government's mobilization bill, having received third reading in the House of Commons, was given similar treatment in the senate and, with royal assent by Canada's new governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, will become law.

Adoption of the measure in the senate came without a vote after Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader, had been questioned on steps to be taken by the government under authority given in the bill to compel all persons to place themselves at their services and their property at the disposal of His Majesty.

Compulsory service applies only in Canada and, while the air minister, Hon. C. G. Power, in the commons, has said all able-bodied men up to the age of 45 will have the opportunity and obligation to join the militia services, the government's plans under the act remain to be disclosed.

Senator Meighen, Conservative leader, said he would support the measure although it was unprecedented in that it gave the government powers that should be reserved for parliament.

At Senator Dandurand's request the bill was given first, second and third reading without the usual formalities of going into committee for consideration clause by clause after second reading.

In reply to questions Senator

Ottawa.—Formal installation of the Earl of Athlone as governor-general of Canada, before a distinguished gathering in the senate chamber at noon Friday, brought expressions of confidence and hope from the new vice-regal representative and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The tall, soldierly figure of the Earl dominated an unprecedented scene in the red chamber where for the first time in the Dominion's history a new governor-general was sworn in and given the great seal of Canada.

On all previous occasions Canada's governors-general have been sworn in at the port where they first set foot on Canadian soil. Because of the war the successor to the late Lord Tweedsmuir came to Ottawa for the ceremony.

High dignitaries of the church, the state, the judiciary and the diplomatic corps of foreign countries were grouped about the red, carpeted dais where a twin throne was set up for their Excellencies the Earl and his royal consort, the Princess Alice. Arriving at Union station promptly at 1:30, their Excellencies went directly to the senate chamber in a procession of military and high civil authorities which was witnessed by thousands of people.

Immediately after the swearing-in and the exchange of addresses, His Excellency performed his first official function by giving royal assent to bills passed by both houses of the Canadian parliament.

These included the government's mobilization measure, passed Thursday, empowering the administration to mobilize all persons and property for war.

By coincidence, in Canberra Friday the Australian governor-general, Lord Gowrie, gave royal assent to a somewhat similar mobilization bill.

New Ruling On Passports

Applies To Travel On Established Railways, Bus And Plane Systems

Ottawa.—Canadian travelling on established transportation systems from Canada through the United States to other parts of Canada do not require passports, United States officials said.

This applies to established railway, bus and airplane systems. If a Canadian is driving his own car a passport is necessary. The regulation requiring Canadians travelling in the United States to have passports becomes effective July 1.

Open For Traffic

Ottawa.—Tourist demand for permission to use the new Banff-Jasper highway, which connects Canada's two largest national parks, has been so great that the highway was unofficially opened June 15.

Big Shell Plant

Now Under Construction And Will Employ 2,500 Men

Ottawa.—The munitions minister, Hon. C. D. Howe, announced that the $8,000,000 shell-dilling plant being constructed in Canada in conjunction with the British government will employ some 2,500 men.

The plant is scheduled to come into production in about six months but every effort is being made to complete it in advance of the scheduled date, Mr. Howe said.

Construction work on the new explosives plant which was to have been erected jointly with the British and French governments has also begun. The work will be carried out by the British government at a cost of $12,000,000. It will employ 2,000 men and is expected to start production before the year end.

Boats For Britain

Washington.—Twenty motor torpedo boats and submarine chasers, 10 of each category, which are under construction for the U.S. navy, have been made available to Great Britain.

Aircraft Production

Output In Britain Now In Excess Of Casualty List

London.—Great Britain has stepped up aircraft production to the point where production in every category exceeds the total casualty list. This has just been revealed by Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production.

"The available aircraft of every type now in use exceeds the number of casualties in every category of the air force when the battle began," the minister says. In addition, through production, repairs, and replenished stocks there is now on hand a very good surplus stock of engines.

Controlled By Government

Ottawa.—The large enterprises of James Francischini, Toronto contractor taken into custody after Italy entered the war, have been taken over by the Dominion government. These enterprises include the Dufferin Shipbuilding Company, of Toronto, which has been working on minesweepers for the government, and the Dufferin Construction Company.

Great Britain Digs In To Resist Any Invasion By Enemy

London.—Great Britain dug in to resist the expected German invasion from any direction.

Believing that the main assault would come on the southern coast, the home security ministry set up a restricted zone 20 miles deep along the coast there, and announced that any person in that zone was liable to questioning and must be able to explain his presence.

Other fronts were not overlooked and plans were made to defend every one of them separately or all of them together.

Military experts believed the Germans first might feint with a raid from Norway or an attack on Ireland, trying to divert the main British forces from the real scene of operations. The possibility of the Germans dropping parachute troops on Eire, accompanied by massive bombing attacks throughout the British Isles, to spread confusion while troops were landed on the English coast, was not overlooked.

If German troops reached the English coast it was believed their main thrust would be southwest from Suffolk and Essex and northwest from Kent, in an attempt to sweep around London for a meeting in the Thames valley west of the capital. A third blow, it was believed, would be aimed west from heart of the Midlands.

Should the Germans effect a landing in Eire, it was said, these thrusts might be accompanied by one from the west, aimed at the industrial region of Liverpool and Manchester.

Safeguards were being taken against all these possibilities and plans also were made to arm a great force of "minute men" with sub-machine guns and hand grenades, to stand off invaders in isolated regions until troops could arrive, and to keep panic-stricken civilians from blocking the roads.

Herbert Morrison, minister of supply, has disclosed in commons that steps were taken to procure large quantities of "tommy guns" and small hand grenades from the United States for use against parachutists and tanks. These would be distributed to "minute men" in all parts of the country.

The ministry of home security has warned the public against running on the roads if an invasion starts. He said the roads would be vital to troops movements and that measures had been taken to insure that they would be kept open.

Must Sing National Anthem

Toronto.—The Ontario government by order-in-council made public has ruled that "God Save the King" must be sung at the opening or close of each day's classes in all public high, vocational and continuation schools in the province.

UNCLE SAM PUSHES DEFENSE PROGRAMME

President Roosevelt warned the United States that the nation must work night and day to help the defense programme, and these officials are largely responsible for details of the scheme being pushed through. Left to right: Representative Andrew May, chairman of the house military affairs committee; Senator David I. Walsh, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, and Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE WAR unsettles our lives. It clouds the future with uncertainty. In earlier days we enjoyed an atmosphere of permanency, more or less. Things did not change so quickly, and we regarded life more complacently.

Events of the past two years particularly have made us wonder, at times, if it is any use planning for the future. Some have adopted the attitude—eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die.

This, of course, is the easy way, and though to some it may appear ideal, yet, were it generally followed, it would lead to chaos and disintegration of life in general. Some must plan and lead, and though democratic people hate to admit that they are led, in times of national stress more than in the piping times of peace, leaders are looked to every day.

TAKE Great Britain, for instance, and Winston Churchill. As prime minister, he is looked on as a world leader. If dictatorial powers are put into force, and they are fast approaching that stage in order to cope with Hitlerism, it is quite likely British people would submit during the stress of war-time conditions. When a common danger threatens, strong leaders inspire confidence and lead people to victory.

THE COLLAPSE of the French nation can be largely attributed to lack of leadership to inspire confidence. If the true story is ever told of inside intrigue and divergent opinions and policies, it will be easy to solve the question as to why France weakened so rapidly following the surrender of King Leopold of Belgium. A country that has had such frequent changes of government as France in the past two or three years certainly could not concentrate on building up a war machine to combat the military might and ruthlessness of Germany.

WHATEVER excuses apologists might make for Marshal Petain's surrender to Germany, the breaking of treaty obligations with Great Britain besmirches the honor of the group who with the aged premier agreed to terms with Hitler. Sympathy there is, and rightly so, for the people of France who have in seventy years suffered the ravages of three wars, two within the life of the present generation, but to submit practically unconditionally to Hitler's oppressive terms places France in the position of a passive ally with Germany against the nation with whom she made a treaty obligation that she would never conclude a separate peace.

BUT the spirit of Great Britain and its self governing Dominions will not be turned back from its original purpose. Victors such as Hitler have their day of glory, pomp and power, their triumphs in which they gloat, such as the typically Hitleric touch of getting out the old railroad car and sitting in the late General Foch's seat and telling the world how Germany had its revenge for the so-called injustices of the Treaty of Versailles. Napoleon met his fate after a brilliant meteoric military career, and finished up a broken man in exile on the island of St. Helena. History may repeat itself, and there will be no sympathy for Herr Hitler if a similar fate overtakes him.

THE FORESTRY service of British Columbia publishes a large display advertisement with the following words in bold type superimposed over a forest scene: "Smoky horizons discourage tourists; prevent forest fires." The same warning well applies to Alberta and its forest reserves.

ITALIAN AMERICANS

(Christian Science Monitor)

"If Mussolini declared war on the Allies, with whose cause virtually all Americans sympathize, what would Italian Americans do?" The question has troubled American friends of democracy.

It Duce has had many admirers in the United States. These have been chiefly of Italian origin. They have explained with obvious satisfaction what Fascism had done for Italy. And sometimes they have even made comparisons between the New Italy of Mussolini and the United States which caused other Americans to wonder why those who liked Il Duce's ways of doing things didn't go back to Italy.

The military alliance between Italy and Nazi Germany has been another source of embarrassment between Italian and other Americans. Whatever clouds Il Duce's war declaration has brought to the Mediterranean, it has dissipated the cloud of doubt as to where Italian Americans would stand in a testing time.

"We are part and parcel of this great Nation," Representative D'Alasandro at Washington immediately declared. And Mayor La Guardia said in his Ottawa speech: "God Almighty has given us our friends in the Western Hemisphere and we reserve the right to pick our enemies in Europe." Men who have been acting in official and semi-official capacity for Italy are resigning their posts. Editors of Italian-language newspapers are condemning Il Duce's act as a blunder for Italy and a great disappointment to Italians in the New World.

Other Americans engaged in an effort to mobilize all possible aid for those who are fighting for freedom will be inspired by the knowledge that their fellow citizens of Italian extraction will stand shoulder to shoulder with them. They will be encouraged by every further sign that the blessings of liberty are not bestowed on any people in vain. They will welcome the discovery that, even among most of Il Duce's once-ardent admirers, sympathy for his methods appears to be confined to the view of Fascism may be good enough for the Old World, but it is not good enough for the New.

AN APPEAL TO EMPLOYEES

At a meeting held this morning (Friday) representatives of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd., the Fernie and Michel local unions of the U.M.W. of A., and Michel and Fernie branches of the Canadian Legion, and Thos. Uphill, M.L.A., it was decided to make a special appeal to employees of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. to invest any money they may have to spare in Dominion Government War Savings Certificates. A letter embracing the appeal with all necessary information will be placed in the pay envelope with the pay statement of each employee on Friday, June 21st.

We cannot all get in the front line of battle, but we can all help a little by purchasing War Savings Certificates and thus help to win the war. This is not charity, but a sound investment. — Fernie Free Press.

Pucksters Win And Lose Ball Games at Lethbridge

Finley and Krohl Pitch for Locals;
Lose 5-2 and Win 5-3.

Angelo and his band of ball chasers hied to Lethbridge on Sunday afternoon, where they engaged Galt Miners, a senior aggregation, in a two-game exhibition.

Russell Finley, of Picture Butte, pitched the first game for Pucksters, with Johnny Eliek behind the plate. Finley pitched a fine game up until the eighth inning, when the score read 1-1, but the team wavered a little and Lethbridge took advantage to win 5-2.

Tommy Krohl, of Michel Buffaloes, pitched the second game for Pucksters, with Johnny Eliek again taking over the catching duties. Tommy was in top form and held the miners in check while his team mates gave him splendid support. Final score, 5-3.

Angelo's two ace pitchers, Marconi and Seaman, failed to get into the games as pitchers. Marconi is suffering from a sore arm and it is a question whether he will see much action for a long time. Seaman is pitching regularly in league games and for that reason was not used in the exhibition series.

Cranbrook is scheduled to play a return series with Pucksters here during July and Galt Miners are also expected to return the Coleman visit next month.

Traffic Officer Needed in Pass

Much Comment Heard on Journal News Item Last Week; Patrol of Crows Nest to Burnie is Recommended.

Last week The Journal published a small news item, one paragraph in length, about speed fiends and road boys on Pass highways. So much supporting comment has been heard regarding this item that The Journal has been encouraged to continue to agitate for a traffic patrol officer.

Much condemnation has been heard about the drivers who absolutely refuse to dim their lights when meeting oncoming cars, causing a hazard which might easily result in serious accidents and possibly loss of life.

Hard surfaced roads throughout the Pass have had the tendency to speed up travel and some drivers are now a menace to public safety. A police officer has recommended that a traffic patrol officer should be placed in this area permanently and should have a territory from Crows Nest to Burnie.

On Tuesday afternoon a Coleman young man came up before Fred Antrobus, J.P., charged with speeding through Coleman and was fined $15.00 and costs.

SINGLE TAX NOTICE CAUSES MISUNDERSTANDING

A number of taxpayers are having some misunderstanding regarding their tax notices. Heretofore they have received separate tax notices for town and school. This year both town and school taxes are on the one notice and proper study will easily reveal this fact. On Saturday the town clerk had on numerous occasions to point out this fact to persons who were unaware that the town and school notices were on the one form.

Tax payments were reported to be good on Saturday, pay day. July 31 is the dead-line for 10% rebate on all current taxes.

GORED BY BULL

D. L. Fleming, of Red Deer, returned to Coleman recently to manage the ranch of his father, G. Fleming, west of town. The elder Fleming received severe injuries when a two-year-old bull attacked and badly gored him. Luckily some fishermen were attracted to the scene and rescued him. He was taken to hospital, where he was confined for several days. While he is now back at the ranch, he is still unable to continue his normal duties. The bull has since been sold. No wonder!

The registration of Germans and Italians resident in the Crow's Nest Pass who were not naturalized prior to 1929 had been proceeding at the R.C.M.P. headquarters at Blairmore during the past week. It is reported that over 300 had to be registered, and firearms in their possession had to be turned in. Over 70 small arms had been turned in by last Friday night. For each person registered five forms have to be made out and fingerprints taken.

MERCHANTS! When your printed matter bears the imprint of The Journal, it sets a good example in showing that you practice the rule of buying at home. Reciprocity in local business benefits both sides in every transaction. When your money is sent to an outside firm, none of it comes back to you. If it is advertised in The Journal it must be O.K.

PLANES FOR FRANCE—NOW THEY'LL GO TO BRITAIN

These U. S. fighting planes destined to be shipped to France by way of Canada are now being held at Mitchell Field, L.I., pending word from the Allied Purchasing Commission. The French peace moves held up the order. It is believed they will go to Britain instead.

Mr. Business Man:

Remember this! When we call on you for printing orders, we are trying to secure work for local printers. When a salesman from an outside place calls, he is interested only in the commission he will get on the order. If he takes orders for printing to be done in some other place, then Coleman is that much poorer, for the chances are that the money you pay for work done by Coleman printers will come back to you several times over. We all lose when you give work to outsiders which could be done here, regardless of the few cents difference in cost.

Departure of Mrs. R. Upton Regretted

Taught Music in Pass For Six Years; Pupils Have Won High Honors at Festivals

Departure of Mrs. Richard Upton, of Bellevue, who with Mr. Upton will leave shortly for Gleichen, will be regretted by many musicians throughout the Pass.

Coming to Bellevue six years ago, Mrs. Upton has taken a keen interest in music and has taught classes in vocal and instrumental music. Her pupils have competed in musical festivals throughout the province winning high honors for themselves and their teacher. Among the best known to Coleman are the Misses Freda Antrobus and Titina Rizzo and Mr. George Burles.

She has taken a leading part on the executive committee of the Crows' Nest Pass Musical festival and has also encouraged the youth of the Pass to take part in various competitions. Social functions have also had the benefit of her musical talent and she has been heard at the annual Burns' night sponsored by the local Caledonian Society.

Hockey Club Carnival Postponed Indefinitely

Coleman Homing Society Notes

W. Roughhead's Bird Wins Yearling Championship and Deliveries Ltd. Cup.

Leading all one year old birds in the $74 miles flight from Lac-La-Biche, Bill Roughhead's bird made a clear win by 12 minutes, winning the 1940 Yearlings Championship and the Deliveries Ltd. Cup besides first prize and "pool" monies.

The next two birds were a bird each to Biegum and Beddington, and the closest clocking in the history of the club was recorded, Beddington clocking in a mere half second ahead of Biegum to place second.

Results: 1st W. Roughhead. 2nd F. Beddington. 3rd A. Biegum.

Prizes were donated by P. Zorratter, Venezia Hotel, Natal; Motordrome and Coleman Homing Society.

The Bell Memorial Cup is being flown for on Thursday, June 27, from Waterways, Alberta.

AUTO COLLISION

An auto collision occurred on the main highway near the old MacLaren mill on Sunday at midnight when a Ford sedan driven by Mike Tazoff, of Coleman, and a Chevrolet coupe, driven by Constable Andrews, of Blairmore, smashed into each other. The Ford, badly wrecked, was towed into the Motordrome garage. None of the occupants were seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Upton Honored at Church Concert

Presented With Case of Silver; Mrs. Upton Received Presentation From Pupils

Bellevue United church choir sponsored a concert on Tuesday evening in the church hall. Assisting artists were pupils of Mrs. Richard Upton, and Mr. Harrison, of Hillcrest.

Patriotic songs and classical numbers were sung by the artists, among whom were the Misses Freda Antrobus and Titina Rizzo, of Coleman; Miss Tillie Minunzie and George Burles, of Blairmore, and Jack Longworth, Bram. Goodwin and E. Coestick, of Bellevue.

Mr. Longworth, speaking on behalf of the pupils, thanked Mrs. Upton for her interest in their musical education during the past six years. Two of her youngest pupils, Marguerite and May Key, presented her, on behalf of the students, with a Waltham watch and a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

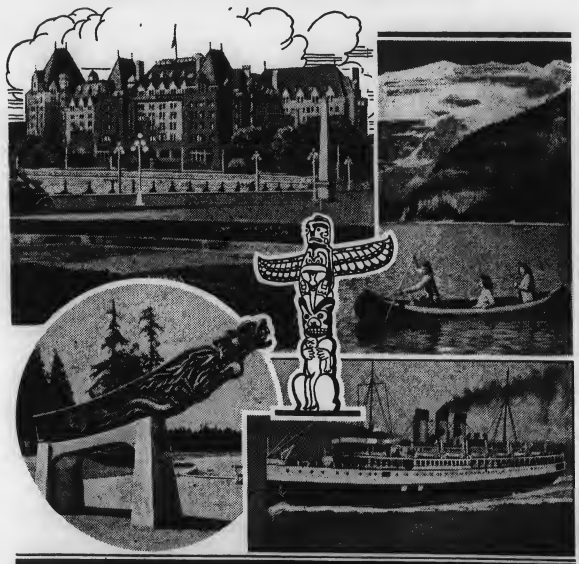

At the close of the concert Mr. Charles Emmerson, president of the church choir, spoke glowingly of Mr. and Mrs. Upton's good work whilst in Bellevue. He presented them, on behalf of the choir, with a case of flat silverware.

Mr. and Mrs. Upton will leave shortly for Gleichen, where Mr. Upton will take over his new duties as minister of the United church.

A GOOD PRESENT AT ANY TIME is to have a relative's or friend's name placed on The Journal mailing list. A weekly reminder of the person who has it sent will always be welcome, and it will keep them in touch with the old home town far better than any other way.

To be effective, printing must show a harmony of type, paper and balance only an experienced printer can achieve.

Banff and the West Coast Call

The Canadian Rockies and British Columbia are the North American Continent's vacation land this year. Banff, Lake Louise, the several charming Canadian Pacific lodges of the Rockies, Vancouver, Victoria and the Canadian Pacific West Coast hotels are enjoying the greatest popularity of their history. With the official opening of the holiday season early in June, Americans and Canadians started coming by the hundreds in a holiday stream which, reservations show, will continue to gain in force through the season.

Many special entertainments planned for Banff, Lake Louise and the other Rocky Mountain resorts centre at Banff and include the Indian Days celebration, July 18-21; annual Alpine Club of Canada camp in Glacier Creek Valley, July 14-29; Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, July 25-30; Sky-Line Trail Hikers, August 2-5; Banff Golf Week, August 18-24; and Banff School of Fine Arts, August 1-31. The Stampede at Calgary, Canada's greatest "Wild West Show," will be from July 8 to 13. Golf, fishing, tennis, swimming, boating and the like are all-summer activities which need no special dates.

Farther west, Vancouver, Victoria and other Pacific Coast centres are holiday headquarters for hundreds of visitors. Victoria, which last winter proved to visit hundreds its right to the title of "Canada's Evergreen Playground," is showing equal popularity as a summer resort. Vancouver has had an unusual early-season influx of visitors. Cruising to Alaska by the Canadian Pacific "Princess" steamers is so popular this year that three special 11-day cruises as well as many regular nine-day cruises promise to attract capacity crowds. Other Pacific Coast cruises are finding equal favor.

The above pictures, typical of holidays in Western Canada, show an Indian totem pole; the Empress Hotel, Victoria, B.C.; canoeing on Lake Louise, second only to Banff as tourist capital of the Rockies; one of the famous "Princess" steamers and the figurehead of the first "Empress of Japan," now a historic monument at Vancouver. The "Empress of Japan" sailed Pacific waters for 31 years, from 1891 to 1922.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

Joseph G. Clark of Toronto has been appointed director of public relations for the air ministry. Air Minister Power announced.

New traffic light installation of 23 signal units at the bank in the heart of London is expected to do the work of nine traffic policemen.

An air raid siren has been installed in the steeple of St. Jean Baptiste church, approximately in the centre of Quebec city.

Elaborate plans to celebrate the official opening of the Jasper-Banff scenic highway have been cancelled by the federal government, according to word received from Ottawa.

Canadians travelling on established transportation systems from Canada through the United States to other parts of Canada do not require passports, United States legion officials said.

The house of representatives naval committee, acting with unprecedented speed, unanimously recommended a $4,000,000 expansion of the fleet designed to give the United States the world's greatest navy.

Britain's supplies of oil and gasoline are "very satisfactory," Geoffrey Lloyd, secretary for petroleum, told the House of Commons. There will be no reduction of the gasoline ration for civilians at present, he said.

Abuses of the privileges of internment correspondents whereby friends and relatives in Canada may send letters to interned prisoners without paying postage has led to a cancellation of the postage privileges.

The Edmonton Grads

Canada's Wonder Basketball Team Decides To Retire

Undeatable champion of the world, Canada's wonder team—the Edmonton Commercial Grads basketball team—is through.

At a rousing reunion and banquet in Edmonton the team which has travelled its unbeaten path for a quarter of a century wrote an official final to its remarkable career.

The Alberta team, said a record which has not been paralleled by any other organization in the world of sport. Since its organization among the graduates of the Edmonton Commercial High School away back in 1915 the organization has set the amazing record of having been defeated only 24 times in 25 years. It chalked up 530 victories.

During that time it has made a clean sweep of every woman's basketball title worth having—provincial, Dominion, North American and world championships. The girls won the Canadian championship every year they tried for it since 1922, the Underwood International Challenge Trophy since it was donated in 1923, the North American title from 1934 to 1938, the last year it was in competition, and the Olympic games series every time they entered.

Now they are retiring on their laurels. Lack of competition, lack of financial support for such a constant winner, and added duties of their famous coach, J. Percy Page, as a member of the legislature, are the reasons.

The team has brought honor and distinction to its home town and to Alberta. If it had staged such an amazing career in any city south of the border it would have been publicized and feted to the skies. Even as it was, it forced its unparalleled record on the attention of Americans traditionally uninterested in anything outside their borders less remarkable than a quintuple birth or a ravaging dictator—Calgary Albertan.

Conservation Results

Through careful conservation, the muskrat population of northern Manitoba rose from 500 to 200,000 in five years, and 128,000 were trapped this spring. The conservation was planned to give Indians better hunting.

At St. Stephen's, Blackpool, England, is located the only chapel specially dedicated to actors.

Question Well Answered

And Members From Illinois Could Not Dispute Its Truth

Evidently the House of Representatives hasn't changed much in the last 80 years. It was in the 50th House in session when Representative Hardin and others of the Illinois delegation began sputtering over the proper pronunciation of the name of their State. Some insisted it was "Hill-dy"; others stoutly maintained that the "s" should be sounded.

Hardin finally appealed to the venerable John Quincy Adams who calling for order said with a wry smile, "I am one to judge from the character of the representatives in this Congress from that State I should decide unhesitatingly that the proper pronunciation was 'All noise'."

Whereupon the gavel fell—Christian Science Monitor.

OR HOW IF FOOLS YOU—THE WONDROUS MAGIC PEA

Keep Friends Agog With Tricks

"Quick! Where is the travelling pea?" Keep the crowd guessing with such lively magic stunts and you'll be the centre of attraction at Summer outings.

For the most mysterious tricks are just harmless deception, and when you know where the catch comes in you can be the deceiver.

Take the trick of the missing pea. The audience sees you place on the table a pea, a thimble and two paper cones. Then you cover the pea and the thimble each with a cone, shift the cones around, and ask the audience to guess which hides the pea.

"This one?" No, you lift the cone to reveal a thimble. Cover the thimble and again shift cones; the audience always guesses wrong. The pea is under the other cone, as you can show.

How come? Well give you a clue. With a little doctoring those thimbles and cones can do wondrous things. And just as easily you can make balloons change color, coins appear and disappear!

The secrets of these and many other magical feats are revealed in our 82-page booklet. Tells how to do clever tricks with cigarettes, matches, glasses, other simple paraphernalia; thrill your friends with a "mental telepathy" act.

I Read --- And Write --- For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

If the human brain continues to grow in size, men may come to have the bulbous-domed, small-faced, short-jawed head that cartoonists already draw for the man of the far future. Thus declares Dr. Weidenreich, of Peking Union Medical College, China. This anthropologist says that human evolution since the beginning has been in the direction of producing a "brain man", and that further progress is likely to continue in the same direction. "Our senses," he says, "of seeing, hearing, feeling, and smelling have suffered in intensity, while we substituted these deficiencies with a higher faculty of producing a 'brain man', and that the aid of tools and instruments invented by the brain power we have overcompensated all that we may have lost of the direct sharpness in sense."

If any of us have funny faces, perhaps the reason is that we have a superior brain!

The educated man in this country is one who has acquired six specific skills—these: (1) ability to speak one's own language correctly and effectively in conversation and on one's feet before an audience; (2) ability to read one's own language with reasonable speed and comprehension; (3) ability to write clear and well-organized exposition in one's own language; (4) ability to read a foreign language with facility; (5) ability to think clearly from a given set of facts; and (6) ability to work and live with other people.

So says W. H. Cowley, president of Hamilton College. "College students," he goes on to say, "are no longer children but not quite adults. They are struggling to grow up, to learn to live equally with their fellows. They seek fervently for a formula for their lives. They stand on the threshold of manhood and womanhood with raised thumbs, like hitch-hikers, awaiting the driver who will carry them along the road of life to a more abundant, more fruitful life."

Aida Reubens, London, England, makes her living—quite a good one—

An Aid To Learning

College Professor Thinks Some Worry Is A Good Thing

People and monkeys worry too much, according to Dr. J. P. Fulton, professor of psychology at Yale University, who admits guardedly—that "folks have to worry some or they'd never learn anything."

Since monkeys demonstrate worrying abilities, Dr. Fulton explained, they are used to experiment with the nature and results of worry.

"We have a chimpanzee that was taught something and later did it wrong," the psychologist recalled. "The chimp worried and fretted like a frustrated child. But after we removed its frontal lobe (portion of the brain) it didn't worry about anything."

Of course, he warned, people who didn't have a frontal lobe would go about touching hot stoves eternally, because that's the part of the brain associated with memory and the trial-and-error device.

By studying the animals, Dr. Fulton explained, scientists eventually will be able to diagnose worries and perhaps eliminate them to a great extent in a far-off day.

Appreciate Cool Water

Hot weather is thirsty weather, for live stock as well as humans. Animals and birds are much more comfortable if supplied with cool, fresh drinking water from a trough in a shady spot. Shade may be supplied by putting up posts with sackcloth attached to the tops.

selling sentiment: she writes the text which goes on greeting cards—for Christmas, birthdays, and other anniversary or sentimental occasions. Miss Reubens has made an average of $3,700 per year for the past 15 years writing sentimental verses.

Miss Reubens sought a position in a stationary store—behind the greeting card counter—in order to get understanding of the greeting card market. She found (1) that nine out of ten buyers were of the working-class type; (2) that nearly all of them bought verse, and because it spoke a message of sincere sentiment, such as would be sent by a working girl to her sweetheart or special chum.

Seventy-two per cent. of the earth's area has remained uninhabited, so says a famous volcanologist; he means that the ocean-covered area of our planet remains unexplored. "The earth is mostly unexplored," says Dr. Thomas N. Jagger, of the United States National Park Service at Hawaii. "Not a rock has been collected from 72% of its area. Is radium there? Is the floor of the ocean volcanic or granite-old? Are there coal or petroleum in the ocean? Are there precious fertilizers, metal ores, metallic lavas, or strange bacteria?"

The broadcast appeal of the Metropolitan Opera for a million dollar fund to enable it to give its broadcast Sunday programmes—an SOS appeal to the God of the Sun—has 152,000 persons, located in the United States, Canada, and the countries of South America. The average contribution was $2.15.

British North Borneo

Is Now Being Governed From This English Country Town

From three flats over a bank in Rickmanstown is now being governed a British possession about the size of Scotland. The "colonial office" of British North Borneo has been moved from London to this quiet little town in Hertfordshire.

Fear that valuable records would be harmed if left in London led the company, which, under royal charter, runs North Borneo, to evacuate to the country. "All sorts of extremely difficult problems would arise if these records were destroyed," explained W. O. Pidgeon, secretary of the $10,000,000 company. "They are continually in use and they could not be kept locked up in our London strong rooms. It would have been that, we would have been continually running up and down stairs."

The Photographer

The photographer is a paradox. He's forever taking the negative, despite which he has the burden of proof. He may not be much of a humorist, but he always manages to get a smile from his patrons. He is ever ready to enlarge on any subject, yet he fears to expose his views to the light of common day. He plans every action with deliberation and then he falls back on snap judgment at the crucial moment.

As a form of salutation, residents of Tibet stick out their tongues.

IS THIS BRITISH "ROCK" UNDER DOUBLE THREAT?

Here is an excellent view of Gibraltar, Britain's fortress at the western entrance to the Mediterranean now under a double threat of attack from the Mediterranean and from the Spanish mainland. Now that Italy has splintered the war against the Allies, the "Rock" will probably be the principal target for Italian bombers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 30

JONAH: THE OUTREACH OF GOD'S LOVE

Golden text: Salvation is of the Lord. Jonah 2:8.
Lesson: Jonah 3; 4.
Devotional reading: Psalm 67.

Explanations and Comments

Jonah's Disobedience, Chapters 1 and 2. The story runs as follows: The word of the Lord came to Jonah, telling him that he ought to go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach there the message that God gave him. But Jonah shrank from going to a non-Jewish city.

Instead of obeying the voice, Jonah went in the opposite direction. At Joppa he found a ship bound for Tarshish (the Phoenician colony on the southern coast of Spain, then regarded as the very end of the earth), and went aboard it.

A violent storm arose; the sailors concluded that some one had offended his god, and they cast lots to discover the culprit. The lot fell upon Jonah, who acknowledged his guilt, and advised them to throw him into the sea. Finding the effort to row back to land unavailing, the sailors prayed to Jehovah and then reluctantly cast Jonah overboard. The sea ceased from its raging, and the sailors offered sacrifice to Jehovah. A great fish swallowed Jonah, and after three days cast him out upon dry land.

Jonah's Tardy Obedience, Jonah 3: 1-4. A second time Jonah received the same commission, and this time he arose and went to Nineveh. Entering the city, Jonah proclaimed the message God had given him. "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be destroyed."

The Repentance and Pardon of the Ninevites, Jonah 3: 5-10. All the inhabitants of Nineveh believed that Jonah spoke the truth, believed that God would destroy their city. All fasted and put on sackcloth. The king's change from throne and royal attire to a sack in the ashes and a covering of sackcloth strikingly portrays the change from pride to penitence. God saw the repentance of Nineveh and "did not the evil which he said he would do unto them." His purpose is sending Jonah was fulfilled.

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS

Thousands of Canadian citizens might look forward to the coming of summer with more joy than they do, if citizens residing near vacant lots would see to it that ragweed and other pollen bearing weeds thereon were destroyed before they had a chance to ripen.

Pointing to the fact that one person in every 100 in Canada and the United States suffers from hay-fever, according to an expert estimate, Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, urged today that greater efforts be made to cope with this irritating plague, which annually makes the summer months a time of wretchedness for so many.

Because of its buoyancy, ragweed pollen is one of the chief distributors of hay fever, says Dr. Bates, and a wholesale destruction of such plants in and around the town would do much to make the air breathable for chronic sufferers.

However, ragweed is not the only hay fever producer. Some exceptionally sensitive noses will succumb to an attack after a visit to a four mill or merely as the result of close proximity to a bouquet of flowers.

These, fortunately, are exceptions, but many people are affected by the pollens of birch, willow, maple, aspens, poplars and other trees, and it is as well to find out to which of these one is allergic.

The Health League points out that scientific methods now are available by means of which any hay-fever patient may learn positively which pollen or dust it is that affects him. Vaccines then can prevent his falling victim when his particular foe appears.

Hay fever, in itself, is not a serious disease, but it may pave the way to sinusitis and other painful maladies. Dr. Bates explains in urging those who are subject to it to take early steps to avoid its recurrence.

The British Government will give immediate advance to civilians whose furniture and clothing are destroyed by war action if their annual income is below £400 (about $1,280), Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House of Commons.

The maximum advance will be £50 (about $160) for furniture and £30 (about $96) for clothing.

CHAPTER VIII.

"Could you please come and see me in the lunch hour?"

A.R. Jim Carlton looked at the "A.R." blankly before he placed "A.R." as indicating Allen—he was under the impression that she spelt her name with an "R". It had been delivered at Scotland Yard by a messenger half an hour before he arrived. Evidently he was waiting on the mat when the girl came out, and she seemed especially glad to see him.

"You will probably be very angry that I've sent you about such a little thing," she said, "and you're so busy."

"I won't tell you how I feel about it," he interrupted, "or you'll think I'm not sincere."

"You see, you are the only policeman I know, and I don't know you very well, but I thought you would mind. Mrs. Gibbons has disappeared; she didn't go home last night nor the night before."

"I'm thrilled," he said. "And her husband fears the worst?"

"She hasn't a husband; she's a widow. Her landlady came in to see me this morning; she's dreadfully upset."

"But who's Mrs. Gibbons?"

"This is where you're going to be very cross with me," she said with a half-smile. "Mrs. Gibbons was one of the charwomen at uncle's flat. Rather a wretched-looking lady with untidy hair. I'm rather worried about it because she's a woman with out friends. I called up uncle's flat this morning and he was almost polite, and told me that she didn't arrive yesterday morning and she hasn't been there to-day."

"She may have met with an accident," was his natural suggestion. "I've telephoned to the big hospitals, but nothing has been heard of her. The workhouse told me the same story. I want you to tell me what I can do next. It's such a little matter that I'll listen meekly to any rude comment you care to think up."

"He was not interested in Mrs. Gibbons; the case of a lonely woman who disappears as from the face of the earth was so common a phenomenon in the life of any great city that he could hardly work up enthusiasm for the search. But Allen was so concerned that he would have been a brute to treat her quite lightly, and after lunch, the day being his own, he went to Stannmore Rents in Lambeth, a little riverside slum, and made a few inquiries at first hand.

Mrs. Gibbons had lived there, the slum-ladyland told him, for five years. She was a good, sober, honest woman, never went out, had no friends, and subsisted on a pound a week which was paid to her quarterly by some distant relation. In fact, she was due to receive the money on the following Monday. Her chief virtue was that she paid her rent every Monday morning and gave no trouble.

"Do you mind if I search her room?"

The landlady wished that and showed him the way; it gave her a nice feeling of authority to be present during the operation.

Jim was shown into a small back room, scrupulously clean, with a bed and a sort of home-made hanging cupboard that had been fixed in one corner and was shrouded by a cheap curtain. Here was the meager wardrobe of the missing charwoman; a skirt or two, a light summer coat that had seen its brightest days, and a best hat. He tried the chest of drawers and found one drawer locked with a broken key. Inside this were one or two little proofs of the vanity of the eternal feminine—a greasy powder puff, a cheap trinket or two, and between lining and outer cover a folded paper of some sort, which had not got there by accident, he saw, when he carried the bag to the light, for it was carefully sewn into the lining. He took out his pocket knife and, picking the stitches, extracted what he thought was one sheet of paper, lightly folded. When he opened the paper out he found there were two head side-

The landlady ducked her head sideways in an effort to catch a glimpse of the writing, but Jim was aware of this maneuver.

"Do you mind going downstairs," he asked politely, "and seeing if you can find in your ashen—"

"Dustbin," corrected the lady. "What is it is the envelope of any letter addressed to Mrs. Gibbons?"

By the time she returned from her profligate task the papers had disappeared, and Jim Carlton was sitting on the narrow bed, and he was examining the threadbare carpet with such intensity that the landlady was certain that he had discovered some bloodstains.

"Oh?" He woke from his dream with a start. "You can't find it? I'm sorry. What was I asked you to get? Oh, yes, an envelope. Thank you, I found it in the bag."

He unlocked the drawer, and with another glance round the apartment came down the treacherous stairs and disappeared.

"You don't think she drowned herself, sir?" asked the landlady tremulously.

"No. Why? Did she ever threaten to commit suicide?"

"She's been pretty miserable for some time, poor dear!" The woman wiped a tear from her cheek, and the fascinated Jim observed that the spot where the apron had been rubbed was perceptibly cleaner.

"No, I don't think she has committed suicide," he said. "She may turn up. If she does, will you send me a telegram."

He scribbled his name and address on a blank that he found in his pocket and gave her the money for its dispatch.

"I know there's something wrong," insisted the fearful lady. "Foul play or something. She bought some stuff to make up into a dress, I've got in my kitchen—it only came the night before last."

She showed him the package, which was unopened.

"My niece was coming in yesterday morning to show her how to cut it out," confessed the woman. But Mrs. Gibbons didn't come home, and my niece lives over in Peckham, and it's a long drive here."

"Yes, I suppose so," said Jim absently.

He walked down the noisome street, got into the little car that was waiting at the end, and went slowly back across Westminster Bridge to his room.

Elk was not in, and even if he had been, he was not in the mood for a consultation. He spread out on the table the papers he had taken from Mrs. Gibbons' bag and read them carefully, jotted down a few particulars, and refolding them, put them in his pocketbook. He passed the next hour in dictating letters to the last people in the world one would have imagined would be interested in the disappearance of a charwoman.

Allen did not expect to see him again that day, and was surprised, almost pleasantly, when he walked into the outer office and sent in his name. She was on the point of leaving, and the office boy, impatient to be gone, misinterpreted the color that came to her cheeks.

"You'll be getting me a very bad name, Mr. Carlton," she said as they went into the street together.

"I tell you that my front name was Jim, or James, as the case may be," he asked. "Shall we try something more snappy in the restaurant line? I know a place in Soho—"

"No, I think I'll go home now."

"I wanted to talk to you about Mrs. Gibbons," he said flippantly, though he was not feeling at all flippant. "And I have told our people that I can be found there if I am wanted."

"Have you had any news?" she asked; and he guessed by her penitent tone that she had altogether forgotten the existence of the charwoman. At any rate, she did not demur when he handed her into the car and she accepted his restaurant, dingy though it was, without protest.

They were passing from the street when Jim heard his name called and looking round, saw a headquarters man.

"Come through just after you left, sir."

Jim read the hastily written phone message.

"He'll be back in an hour," he said, and followed the girl who was waiting for him in the vestibule.

When they were seated:

"I want to ask you, was Mrs. Gibbons in the flat that night your uncle's safe was burgled?"

She considered.

"No, she wasn't there; at least, she oughtn't to have been there. She came later, you remember. I opened the door to her."

"Oh!" he said, and she smiled.

"What does 'Oh' mean?" And then quickly: "You don't think she was the burglar, do you?"

"No, I don't think that," he said; his tone was very grave—she wondered why. "Tell me something about her; was she well educated?"

Allen shook her head.

"No, she was rather illiterate. I've had many of her notes, and they were scarcely decipherable. The spelling was—well, very original."

"Oh!" he said again, and she could have boxed his ears.

"Well, that's that!" he said at last. "I don't think that even your uncle, with his well-known passion for humanity, was so much as shed a silent tear. She was just nothing, nobody—a slip of straw caught up in the wind and deposited God knows where! State fair under the dustman's broom. Horrible, isn't it?"

Car Of The Future

Complete Change On Basic Design Is Predicted

When the horseless carriage streamlined itself into the sleek car of to-day, most of us assumed that at last we were riding in the automobile of the future. But David Beecroft of the aviation industry told the automotive engineers at White Sulphur Springs that we have reached only the end of the trail—the end of the method. The car of the future will be the product of research in which every improvement of structure and material is dictated not by public taste but by laboratory test.

Mr. Beecroft predicts a complete change in basic design, a development from a rear-engine drive and a superstructure which is an integral part of the chassis. Engines in the rear are logical enough and have been tried in several models, without winning much popularity, but this arrangement has never lost its attractiveness for the engineer. If he can work it out, so much the better.

Present improvement is chiefly in the field of material. Cotton and rubber, Mr. Beecroft thinks are on the way out. Tires of the future will substitute synthetics for natural latex and rayon for cotton fabrics, though we may need a national reforestation program to do this. Brisker fuels and better engines will give the new car more even speed and manoeuvrability. Supercharging and synthetic rubber spring systems are just around the corner.

In a word, the car of to-morrow will do almost everything but fly. How to develop a race of super-drivers who know enough to stay on their own side of the road is the chief problem left unsolved—New York Times.

Lexicon Of War

New Words Coined Since The Beginning Of Hostilities

The British Ministry of Information has added "neutrality" to the national lexicon of war words made popular in the last 12 months. A chatterbox discloses military intelligence by talking with unguarded tongue in public places or to persons who might pass secrets to enemy agents.

A parachute is one who repels parachutes. The word was coined when thousands in England volunteered to meet invaders from the skies. Stukas are dive-bombers, though once the term stood for "sturtzkampfbomber," the machine that could drop bombs on a run in its dive-bombing phase. Dive-bomber itself is a comparatively new word.

Panzer troops, according to Associated Press despatches, are "armorized" soldiers. Now the word describes all motorized fast-moving units.

These terms have temporary significance and may be as quickly forgotten as were "Jack Johnson" and "minnewurfer" after the last world war. But history will always cling to "Fifth Column," a deathless feat of arms will doubtless for all time make the word "Dunkirk" stand for victory in defeat—Vancouver Province.

Great Change In Method

More Mules Than Planes Were Used In The Last War

The New York Post says Department of Commerce figures, soon to be released, reflect the change in warfare, since the time when General Pershing headed the A.E.F. In 1918 this government shipped to the Allies $15,000,000 worth of mules, and less than $7,000,000 worth of planes. But the change in method was not complete until the war was over. From September to February we exported to the Allies, via Canada, only six mules—worth $150—and $61,200,000 worth of aircraft.

Some Trees Become Fests

In all the tree planting projects that are being carried out it is well to remember that there are weed trees that are to be avoided. Manitoba maple and Carolina poplar make quicker growth than most other trees and will spread to fence corners and fields where they become pests.

Control Sale Of Arms

Ontario Considers Taking Steps In This Connection

The Ontario Government is considering controlling the sales of rifles and shotguns in sports goods shops throughout the province, Attorney-General Conant announced.

The question is being considered in connection with the supplying of firearms to volunteer civil guards.

Mr. Conant said that jurisdiction in connection with the sale and disposition of firearms rests with the Federal Government, but the Ontario Government is considering the whole question of firearms in connection with shops which are selling rifles and shotguns without licences.

Volunteer civil guards will be supplied with arms by the province.

Mr. Conant said it is contrary to law and public policy for any group organization or guard to carry arms except on authority of some competent jurisdiction. There are two jurisdictions. One is the Federal Government and that body can exercise the authority through the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the militia.

The second jurisdiction is through the province. Consequently, Mr. Conant said the volunteer civil guard—a separate body of the home guards sponsored by the Federal Government—would be armed by authority of the Attorney-General.

Volunteer civil guards will be supplied with arms by the province.

Czechs are being rounded up by "Press Gang" methods and put to work in Germany. Even highly skilled workers and engineers are among the enforced laborers who are sent to unknown destinations in Germany.

Gift From A Pilot

An airplane capable of carrying six passengers and a pilot, in addition to light bombs, was donated to the French government by Harry Hammill, former British war pilot and now manager of the municipal airport at Austin, Texas. ## Dr. Carpenter Urges More Shop Work in Schools

Estimated Cost to Coleman $1460; Includes Shopwork and Home Economics.

Dr. Carpenter, of Calgary, visited the Pass school boards at the weekend in connection with general shop work and home economics.

Commenting on the Coleman set-up, he remarked to Chairman Fraser that among all the towns in the province Coleman had perhaps the best built school, but it lagged far behind the rest of the province in shop work and home economics.

Three main issues were discussed; equipment, instruction and transportation. The provincial government pays 50% of all expenses. A large number of items of equipment were listed by Dr. Carpenter in both shop work and home economics and the estimated maximum cost to the school board was $500. Cost of an instructor was the heaviest expense. Dr. Carpenter recommended that Coleman, having the largest school, pay three fifths of the expenses and Blairmore two fifths. Coleman to have the instructor three days per week and Blairmore two. Transportation for the instructor between the two towns was found to be only a minor expense and would be borne in the same ratio as the instructor's salary.

Coleman school board is prepared to go ahead with shop work to a greater extent than heretofore, Principal Holye having been instructing a number of students for the past few years. A fair amount has already been bought during the past two years and this would lighten the financial burden of the estimated cost set by Dr. Carpenter. The Board will consult further before committing itself to inaugurating a home economics class.

YOUR HOME TOWN WEEKLY NEWSPAPER records the local happenings in interesting style, which makes it looked for eagerly every week by Coleman people and those who have moved to distant points. The home town weekly to former Colemanites is better than a letter.
